

Jo Small

I have been a therapeutic radiographer at the Northern Centre for Cancer Care (NCCC) for 19 years. I still work clinically delivering complex radiotherapy treatments safely and accurately to our patients.

I have an interest in education and I am part of the team responsible for training staff in image guidance and treatment technique. I have recently become the work-based mentor for the department's Therapeutic Radiographer Degree Apprentices.

I also work one day a week for Sheffield Hallam University (SHU) as Practice Learning Tutor for SHU students on placement in Newcastle and Middlesbrough Radiotherapy Centres.
