

Lunch and Learn | The National Cancer Plan: what, why, how and where next?

Speaker Bio

Rob Stones
Director of Delivery, National Cancer Programme
NHS England

Rob has been Director of Delivery for the National Cancer Programme team in NHS England since January 2025, and prior to that has held a range of roles at national and regional level, almost all in health roles within the NHS and the Department of Health.

His background is in performance, planning, data and analytics. He has a passion for using data and analysis to tell stories to drive service improvements for patients and to shape national policy and strategy.